

“Proposition 10 is based on the latest information about brain development which emphasizes the key role parents and caregivers play in the development of young children. Although a wide range of individuals and institutions impact the health and well-being of young children, the role of parents is paramount. By providing children between the ages of birth and five with safe, nurturing and stimulating environments, parents and caregivers influence long-term growth and development during these important early years.” Ellen Vieira, First 5 Plumas Executive Director
